HIGH SCHOOL
SCHOLARS BOOKLET

UNION RUN BAPTIST CHURCH, 3220 KESWICK ROAD, KESWICK, VA 22947

WELCOME MESSAGE

To the 100 BMOCV High School Scholars and their Families:

On behalf of the 100 Black Men of Central Virginia, I would like to extend my warmest congratulations to all of you who have received a scholarship from our organization. This is an outstanding achievement that you should be incredibly proud of!

This is our largest HS scholarship class EVER with 42 well deserving scholars! Each earning a $1,000 scholarship! This achievement is a testament to your hard work, dedication, and commitment to your academic and personal goals. It is also a recognition of your potential to make a positive impact in our Central Virginia community and beyond.

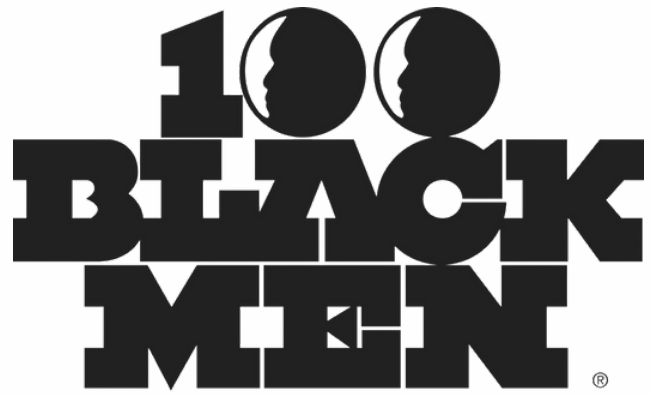

Once again, congratulations on this incredible accomplishment, and we wish you all the best in your future endeavors!

Yours in community,
Daniel Fairley

Virginia

PURPOSE

The purpose of the 100 Black Men of Central Virginia is to improve the quality of life within the community and advocate eliminating the achievement gap of African American males students through mentoring by the members. The organization is inclusive in its efforts for public involvement. 100 BMOCV is a non-profit organization and non-partisan.

MISSION

The 100 Black Men of Central Virginia advocate for the elimination of the achievement gap of African American males in grades K -12.

VALUES

The 100 Black Men of Central Virginia is committed to advocating for progressive change in Central Virginia communities in education, health, civics, and economics. In addition to mentoring young African American males in our communities, 100 Black Men of Central Virginia provides mentorship and support to the men who are members of our organization.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

An accomplished educator and leader, Stephanie Rowley, has dedicated her career to teaching and mentoring with a deep commitment to student and organizational success. Rowley joined the University of Virginia in July 2022 from Columbia University's Teachers College, where she served as Provost, Dean, and Vice President for Academic Affairs. Her many accomplishments at Teachers College included advancing research and teaching support for faculty, advancing interdisciplinary collaboration, and strengthening graduate student life and development. Rowley's research explores how parents' attitudes toward race and gender, and their own social experiences influence their children's motivation in school. Most recently, she undertook a longitudinal study of African American parents' beliefs about STEM disciplines and how those beliefs affect middle school youth. Her work has been continuously funded by the National Science Foundation.
